Florence Nightingale and Aristotle walk into a bar…… Finding the 'good' nurse in the mediocre haystack
Lisa Wolf, RN, PhD, CEN, FAEN

Behavioral Objectives/Outline

1.Discuss the attributes of the 'good' nurse

   I. The 'perfect duty' of nursing

   II. .What makes a 'good' nurse?

   A. Knowledge base

   B. Critical thinking skills

   C. Sense of mission

2. Identify the situations in which these attributes are most important

   III. Finding the 'good' nurse in the mediocre haystack

   A. How does the good nurse think?

   a.Adepth of knowledge

   b.contextual application

   B.Does anybody have a 'sense of mission' anymore?

   a.Hardest thing to assess for b.May make the biggest difference in both unit tone and patient care

   c.How to assess whether your potential hire there for a job or a calling

3. Develop 2 strategies to incorporate these qualities or attributes unit-wide

   IV. Incorporating the 'good' nurse as a unit standard

   Recognition

   Reinforcement

   Encouragement

   Reward

Summary and discussion