

Carolyn Dixon, DNP, MS, RN, FNP-BC, CEN, TCRN, NYSAFE

Carolyn is currently employed as the nurse educator at Staten Island University Hospital, Staten Island, New York. Carolyn has over twenty years of emergency and critical care experience and is devoted to the educational development of nurses, especially that of the emergency department nurse.

When not in the trenches with her co-workers, Carolyn can be found spending time with family and friends and walking with her new fur baby Cooper.

Thermoregulation Dysregulation

Summary of Presentation:

Review of, identification, and treatment of Thermoregulation Dysregulation in the ED. Topics discussed to include: Hot and Cold

Learning Objectives:

Participants will differentiate and describe the types of emergent heat and cold injuries

Participants will describe appropriate treatment for the individual presenting with an emergent heat or cold complaint

Bibliography:

American College of Surgeons. (2018). Atls: Advanced trauma life support: Student course manual.

Emergency Nurses Association. (2000). Tncc: Trauma nursing core course.

Gelston, C. D., & Deitz, G. A. (2020). Eye Emergencies. American family physician, 102(9), 539–545.

<https://www.morganlens.com/resource-library>

Shah, S. M., & Khanna, C. L. (2020). Ophthalmic Emergencies for the Clinician. Mayo Clinic proceedings, 95(5), 1050–1058. <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.mayocp.2020.03.018>

Sheehy, S. B., Hammond, B. B., & Zimmermann, P. G. (2013). Sheehy's manual of emergency care. 7th ed. / St. Louis, Mo., Elsevier/Mosby.

UpToDate. (n.d.). Retrieved February 6, 2023, from <https://www.uptodate.com/contents/approach-to-thermo-injuries-in-the-emergency-department#!>