Greetings!

We are happy to present you with the New York State Emergency Nurses Association's latest electronic newsletter. It's packed full of information and many opportunities for our members. As always, we welcome your comments, feedback and suggestions!

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Hello Colleagues,

My very first meeting as your NYSENA president and mother-nature threw me a curve. Actually weather wise, here in Western NY it was just another winter day but I understand that those of you who live in the NYC area are unaccustomed to such snowfall. The safety of all members tops my list of concerns; therefore, I felt it was in the best interest of all members that our January meeting be cancelled. I do hope that the remainder of the year goes a bit more smoothly, but if not just remember, we are emergency nurses, and we can do this!

I just want to mention a few good things that the new year brings. Our conference committee is working hard to bring us a fantastic NYS conference on April 7 & 8. Our fundraising was so successful we were able to fully endow our 9/11 scholarship in just 4 ½ years (much less than the anticipated 10 year time frame).

Weather is not the only challenge facing us today, workplace violence is on the rise, behavioral health care is in crisis mode, nursing shortage worsens, acuity and volume of patients is on the rise and reimbursement is on the decline. As emergency nurses we are considered the "front line" of hospitals, we are who patients see first and judge first, did we introduce ourselves, were we wearing a name tag, did we smile, did the patient get medicated in a timely fashion. Our concerns differ greatly than those of our patient's, unfortunately, nurses must consider patient satisfaction as big a concern as workplace violence, etc.

I look forward to working with each and every one of you throughout the year, maybe we cannot fix the world's problems but I am sure we can do great things for our wonderful profession.

Proud to be an emergency nurse,
Jacquie Glendinning, BSN, RN
NYSENA president
